

15. The method of claim 14 wherein the closure member is provided with a releasing member for release from said latch.

16. The method of claim 15 wherein the closure member has a centering means ensuring aligned, centered positioning of the closure member in relation to the opening.